WISCONSIN PUBLIC TELEVISION'S APRIL 28 DIRECTOR'S CUT FEATURES INTERVIEW WITH RIVETT AND YOUNG

GREEN BAY, WI, March 31, 2011 — Director Jim Rivett and producer Shelly Young of the documentary film Westbound are the featured guests in the upcoming Director's Cut airing April 28 at 9 p.m. on Wisconsin Public Television.

Director's Cut introduces narrative and documentary films made by indie directors while exploring the Wisconsin connections. Charles Monroe-Kane hosts the series for fans of independent films and creative thinking.

In the approximately 30-minute interview, Rivett and Young talk about the making of their film Westbound and what it was like to chronicle the life of the Grand Duke of the Hobos.

Westbound explores the life of folk artist Adolph Vandertie, dubbed the Grand Duke of the Hobos. It details his journey from addiction to personal redemption and his lifetime obsession with whittling and preserving hobo and tramp art.

The interview will air April 28 at 9 p.m. followed by the film at 9:30 p.m. The Director's Cut interview will again air on April 29 at 11 p.m.

Rivett serves as president of the Green Bay agency Arketype where Young also works as a producer.

Arketype is an award-winning creative agency delivering high-concept advertising and design solutions through video, animation, online and print. The firm is the recipient of the 2009 BCA TEN Award honoring the top-10 companies in America supporting the arts. To learn more, visit www.arketypeinc.com.
